Sustainable Infrastructure for Gender Equality: Putting Prevention Up Front

Tuesday, 12 March 2019

1:15pm* - 2:45pm

Roger Smith Hotel

Winthrop Room (Mezzanine Floor)

501 Lexington Ave

New York, NY, USA 10017

The priority theme for CSW63, Social protection systems, access to public services and sustainable infrastructure for gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls, presents an opportunity to highlight ways in which the peace, development, and humanitarian nexus can work to remove barriers and accelerate progress for gender equality through establishing gender-sensitive systems, services, and infrastructures. Recognizing the importance of holistic approaches to peace through prevention and inclusive processes, the international community has begun shifting its focus.

The prevalence of armed conflicts and natural disasters frequently leave women and children, especially girls, to survive without basic services and systems, the loss of which leaves women more vulnerable in addition to affecting their empowerment potential and ability to contribute to conflict and atrocity prevention and build sustainable peace in their communities. Moreover, the particular needs and roles of diverse young women and girls are rarely addressed, especially if they are coming from marginalized communities. Research and women's lived experiences show that gender equality is linked to inclusive human security and that when women and girls are empowered and have access to the services they need, states are more peaceful and communities are safer.

Thus, the Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung New York, the International Coalition for the Responsibility to Protect (ICRtoP), and the Global Partnership for the Prevention of Armed Conflict (GPPAC), working in partnership within the Prevention Up Front (PuF) Alliance, invite you to join us Tuesday, 12 March from 1:15pm – 2:45pm (light lunch served at 1:00pm) for a panel discussion, entitled Sustainable Infrastructure for Gender Equality: Putting Prevention Up Front.

The panel will feature:

- Ms. Adriana Erthal Abdenur (Brazil, Igarapé Institute)
- Ms. Kesia-Onam Birch (Ghana, West Africa Network for Peacebuilding, Women in Peacebuilding Network),
- Ms. Shirine el-Jurdi (Lebanon, Women's League for Peace and Freedom),
- Ms. Eliška Jelínková (Czech Republic/UK, United Network of Young Peacebuilders)

The event will be moderated by Ms. Sharon Bhagwan Rolls (Fiji, Chairperson of the Global Partnership for the Prevention of Armed Conflict), who will lead discussion to explore the priority theme of CSW63 through a conflict prevention lens.

As space will be limited, please register with Ms. Marijke Kremin (kremin@wfm-igp.org) by 5:00pm on Friday, 8 March 2019. *A light lunch will be served at 1:00pm.

SPEAKER BIOGRAPHIES

Adriana Erthal Abdenur

Coordinator of the Peace & Security Division, Igarapé Institute

Ms Abdenur is a Brazilian researcher and coordinator of the International Peace & Security Division at Instituto Igarapé, a think tank based in Rio de Janeiro. Her portfolio covers projects on conflict prevention and resolution; peace operations; climate and security; migration and refuge; and women, peace and security. She currently sits on the UN ECOSOC Committee on Development Policy and is a member of the group of experts convened by Germany to provide inputs on climate and security to the UN Security Council. She earned her PhD from Princeton University and lives in Rio de Janeiro with her two children.

Kesia-Onam Bijou Birch

West Africa Network for Peacebuilding's (WANEP) Regional Program Officer of the Women in Peacebuilding (WIPNET)

Ms Birch coordinates WANEP's WIPNET Program and supports its 15 National Networks in the implementation of Gender programs across West Africa, representing the organization in its partnership with ECOWAS. She provides support and expertise in the development, implementation and review of 1325 National Action Plans in West Africa. Furthermore, she is GPPAC's Gender Focal Point in West Africa. Ms Birch has over fifteen years of experience in women, peace and security as well as youth and peace education with a particular focus on training, negotiation, mediation, facilitation, manual development and conflict analysis. She has regional experience spanning various West African countries and beyond where she conceptualized, organized, conducted and facilitated trainings for women and teachers.

Shirine el-Jurdi

MENA Regional Representative, Women's International League for Peace and Freedom (WILPF)

In 2003, Ms el-Jurdi joined WILPF-Lebanon and is now an executive member of the Lebanon section and the MENA Regional Representative. She started her career working on consultancy projects with the Lebanese Ministry of the Return of the Displaced, UN Office on Drugs and Crime and as a researcher on Lebanese Heritage at LAU. She completed her studies at the Lebanese American University (LAU), Tokyo University of Foreign Studies (TUFS) and a research fellowship at SOAS, inspired her belief that academic and grassroots activism should work together for a more holistic approach towards ensuring the Sustaining Peace and 2030 Agendas find their way in a MENA perspective, particularly SDG 5 and 16. Her present work focuses on: women's political participation and representation; Violence against Women Prevention; the WPS agenda and the localization of National Action Plans in a MENA perspective; conflict analysis, social cohesion and peacebuilding; and transitional justice, refugees, and peace processes. She has also worked extensively on disarmament issues, including currently serving as team leader for WILPF Lebanon on the Campaign to Stop Killer Robots.
